Ah Sam Executed.

It seems that the Chinese horse thief, captured in this city by Constable Bello, has escaped. The Ventura Press says of the matter: "There is a black hat and queue at the sheriff's office, and there hangs a little tale. Sheriff Snodgrass was bringing Ah Sam, the horse thief, back on the Newhall stage last night. The Chinaman was handcuffed and seated opposite the sheriff, all the precautions being taken that are usually taken with prisoners. When near Saticoy, at about 12 o'clock, the Chinaman made a leap out into the darkness, but not before a passenger on the seat with him grabbed his queue, to which he held on with a death grip. The horses becoming frightened, started up and Ah Sam dangled on the outside until his queue was caught in the brake-chain and severed from his head. The sheriff took a shot at the departing criminal, but owing to the darkness missed. The sheriff and assistants are now searching for him and without doubt will soon have him behind the bars."

Sunset Excursion.

The second Pullman car excursion to the Sunset Route, numbering one hundred and fifty, arrived at Los Angeles this morning at 9 o'clock, under the charge of Chas. B. Tarrill. The passengers express themselves as highly pleased with their trip and are delighted with the attractive scenery, good eating houses and attention of all the railroad employees.

The Charge Did Not Stick.

J. A. Alviso, a Mexican waiter, was arrested on complaint of E. J. Davis some days ago on the charge of robbery. Davis was gambling in a dive on New High street at night and was getting ahead. Suddenly some one whom he claims was Alviso, aimed a blow at his head. Davis dodged and at that moment his pile, consisting of $7 or $8 lying on the table before him, disappeared. The examiner, Alviso took place yesterday before Justice Austin. Davis was missing and could not be found. It was proved that the money had really been stolen, but there were five or six men standing around the table at the time and nothing in the evidence connected Alviso with the crime. He was discharged.

The Chief Engineer.

It is said among those who are credited with knowing things that Walter S. Moore would not be disinclined to resign the position of Chief Engineer of the Fire Department, if he could receive the assurance that the Assistant Engineer, D. A. Moriarty, will receive the position when he vacates it. Moriarty is a good fireman and has shown his ability in the last fire at the Philadelphia Brewery. The other candidates mentioned are Thomas Strohm, a very good fireman also, and ex-Councilman James Velsir, an capable engineer, who has good knowledge of that which pertains to the Fire Department.

No Need of Stolen Blankets Now.

Emile L. Magney, who stole Pierre Lafargue's blankets some days ago, was sentenced to the county jail yesterday for three months by Justice Austin. A few heavy sentences for petty larceny will give the people of Los Angeles a rest from the fear of being cleaned out whenever they leave their homes unprotected for a little while.

A MERITED SENTENCE.

Wm. Dixon Gets Five Hundred Days in the County Jail.

Mr. and Mrs. Plummer came from their Chahuenga ranch on Saturday and fastened their team just back of the Times office, on New High street. William Dixon, of no particular vocation excepting the high art of larceny, came sauntering along just then, and cast a look of envy upon Plummer's fine overcoat which was in the wagon. The look was detected by Plummer, who hid behind a bulletin board to observe Dixon's actions. When the latter thought the coast was clear he immediately pounced upon the overcoat and started down the street with it, not fast enough, however, to escape Plummer's revengeful grip. He was brought to the police office and charged with petty larceny of Justice Austin. The defendant pleaded guilty. Justice Austin asked him if he had ever been convicted before, to which Dixon replied that he had been convicted of petty larceny before Justice Morgan, and had also been under one term in the Penitentiary, but that he had not been up before Justice Austin. The Court then sentenced him to pay a fine of $500 or go to the county jail for five hundred days. Having no money Dixon was reluctantly compelled to take the days, and he said tearfully, while he was being taken to his prison cell, that the Penitentiary would have been bliss indeed compared with the present award. Justice Austin is satisfied that he has sentenced Dixon before, but under another name. The record does not show the name of Dixon, either under Justice Morgan or the present incumbent.

A Lively Corpse.

Captain Froelich, formerly Captain of Police under Chief Cuddy, and left for the East several months ago, returned to Los Angeles yesterday. It was at that time reported that the Captain had committed suicide in Chicago. It was not the case, however, as he just about as lively as ever since his return, and is willing to re-enter upon his favorite pursuit of following up evil-doers.

Marriage Licenses.

Marriage licenses were issued to the following named persons yesterday:

A. Steinke to D. Davoust; M. Feliz to F. Alvarez; Fred. J. Carter to Camille Reitz; A. Costa to E. Carasco; T. M. Garcia to Emma Olsen.

Men and Women in Life's Prime.

Who rise unrefreshed, feel languid through the day, have little appetite, and whose bodies, the execution of their duties on the part of the grave. Unless they can effect a radical change in their condition they will reach old age, and in old age is the most means of their physical salvation. Upon Hostetter's Stomach Bitters they can trust, for it is a powerful and reliable remedy, which is a prerequisite of health, and to remove that prime cause of continued debility, the execution of their duties on the part of the grave. Our Vineyards.

The vignerons are the busiest people in Southern California these bright December days. Wherever one goes through the valley gangs of men may be observed pruning the vines. Following these come other gangs lifting the canes out of the vineyard to be burned out of the way. Near Anaheim some of the vine-growers do not cut the cane off at once, but take off the tops first, which are cut so short as to allow of plowing them under. Later the thicker portion is pruned, and as this is much shorter than the first trimming it is covered at the second plowing. This process does not require much more labor than the other, and the canes are thus returned to fertilize the soil. There is much advantage in this method. From a good vineyard there is gathered an aggregate of five to eight tons of fruit each October. In the prunings there is carried off the soil a further mass of growth amounting to a great many tons. It is difficult under such a process to prevent the land from becoming impoverished. The reason why this has not been felt here before is that our virgin soil thus far shows no sign of exhaustion. In the long run it must and will.

It is worthy of observation that in some of the vineyards, men are following the pruners and getting out a large supply of cuttings for the spring planting. Last year there were few vines set as compared with what was done in 1881 and all the succeeding springs up to 1884. The reason of this falling off were two. The great trouble has been lack of facilities to handle the crop. There has been, after all is said, too much tendency to speculate in lands, and too little disposition to enter into the legitimate business of development. The speculative fever has made money scarce and dear. When this era of gambling in reality comes to an end, there will be a dropping off in interest rates, and money will seek investment in building up wineries and other substantial improvements of the country. Our great crowds of new comers will be compelled to join those of us who have seen Los Angeles in all her ups and downs, and become actively engaged in developing some of the industries of sterling worth. Then we shall get more wineries, and more effort will be made to introduce our wines into the markets of the world. It will not be long before this desirable change is brought about, and when it comes the price of grapes will go back to $20 or $25 per ton. This will be upon us before the plantings of this year are in bearing four or five years hence. Now is an excellent time to plant vines.

Another reason for slacking up was the uncertainty as to what sort of grape to plant. Time was when the Mission was regarded as one of our best vines. All conversant with this matter remember when the Malvoisie was thought to be one of the very best grapes to plant. Later all ran to the Zinfandel. Then it was discovered that the Mission was a cumbrance to the ground, and that the Zinfandel was not possessed of all the good qualities in the world.

Within two years many new varieties have been introduced, and at length it seems as if the era of tentative experiment were at an end, and that of knowledge well founded in experience ours.

Among the best new varieties are the Pinotrose, the Pitt Bouscher, the Souvignou Vert, the Mataro and the Hnaseo. The Malbeck, once a great favorite, is now only used in the ratio of five per cent, or blending with other clarets.

The end of this experimental stage, and the knowledge derived from these views of experience are most valuable to the new vine planter. One going to plant a vineyard now avoid the mistakes of four or five years ago. He can set not only the best vines in general, but any vignerons can tell him what varieties would do best in his own particular locality and soil.

This knowledge and experience have resulted in the production of sounder qualities of wine. The result of this is a much better demand for our wines, and better prices in the markets, where supplies are always at a low ebb. The vintage of 1886 is of excellent quality. The total for the State reaches about 16,000,000 gallons, exclusive of about 4,000,000 distilled to brandy. Los Angeles county produced nearly 5,000,000 gallons of the wine. Of 1884 and 1885 there is not a gallon on the markets. It has all gone out of the hands of dealers.

These facts all go to show that the current year is a good one to plant vines. The demand at the East increases at the rate of 2,000,000 gallons a year. There are movements on foot now which will make a great market in London for California wines. In France the consumption of wine averages thirty-five gallons per annum a head. When the people of the United States educate their tastes to this standard we shall use over 2,000,000,000 gallons a year. The present consumption of this country is only about 40,000,000 gallons. We can triple our production to supply the present demand, and when that point is reached, the demand will be more than double. When as a people we have learned to use half a gallon of light wine each week per capita, intoxication will be all but unknown, pulmonary consumption will have ceased to be a national curse, and dyspepsia, the twin terror of consumption, will also be unknown.

High Ground.

During his recent visit to San Francisco, Mr. I. W. Hellman, the only prominent candidate for United States Senator in Southern California, was interviewed by a reporter of the Call. It will be seen from the foregoing that our townsman takes a dignified and proper stand as to his candidacy and that he does not propose to enter into any equivocal declaration to further his political aspirations. Mr. Hellman is the choice of the people of this section for this exalted office, and they will be gratified at his manly and outspoken attitude. The Call says:

I. W. Hellman, of Los Angeles, who has been mentioned as a probable Democratic candidate for United States Senator for California, is at present in this city and is staying at the Palace Hotel. In conversation with a Call reporter last evening, Mr. Hellman said:

"As to my candidacy for United States Senator, I have not yet positively said yes to my many friends who are urging me to come forward and seek the position. Stephen M. White and L. J. Rose are very anxious that I should be a candidate. I may say I believe that all the Democrats of the southern section of the State are most desirous that I should be the next United States Senator. Since I have been in town I have had calls from some of my very best people here, and have been warmly urged to enter the contest. However, if I do so, I shall go into it only on strictly high moral and Democratic principles. I shall have no corruption. No matter how highly I value the honor of being the coming Senator of this great State, I will have nothing to do with it if it is to be procured by a lavish expenditure of money. I would not accept a great trust from the State under such circumstances. My friends claim that I have done something for the party in days gone by, and during the last campaign I certainly made a good fight for the Democrats of California. I was the chairman of the County Committee of Los Angeles. There can be no doubt but that for the efforts which have been made in Los Angeles Governor Bartlett would have been beaten at least by a couple of thousands of votes. The Republicans claimed a majority of 2,500 in Los Angeles county and only managed to win by a majority of 400 or so; that is, by our efforts we gave the Democratic party some 2,200 votes that the Republicans counted upon for themselves. We have elected our two State Senators and one Assemblyman. Another Assemblyman only pulled through by a plurality of ten or twelve. We have also carried the offices of District Attorney, County Treasurer and Sheriff, and four out of the five supervisors are Democrats. So you see Los Angeles gave a good account of itself for the Democratic party at the late election."

Mr. Hellman, who had intended to return to Los Angeles yesterday, has apparently been encouraged by the interviews he has had, as stated, with several prominent members of the Democratic party, for he has decided to remain in San Francisco until Sunday, by that time it is probable that his programme regarding the impending contest for United States Senator will be more definitely developed than his conversation with the Call reporter yesterday would imply.

With our coffee on Sunday we were assured that the grand old Kaiser had written an autograph letter to the Czar in the interest of peace, and that he of all the Rus-ias had received the message from the aged Emperor of Germany in a brotherly, indeed in a christian spirit.

The white dove of peace seemed to brood over every capital in the old world. To-day we learn that every anvil in Europe is ringing with warlike preparations, and that the brooding dove is pluming her pinions for the long flight to Cower's.

"Lodge in some vast wilderness. Where sound of successful, nor unsuccessful, War might never come."

And war is said to be inevitable. After all, these great preparations, and the rise in the price of wheat, are more than even autograph letters. Besides it was rather significantly interjected in the news of that letter, that the Emperor had not consulted Prince Bismarck about that step he was making.

CERTAIN propositions are represented to be made looking to the establishment of a cotton factory here. There is one at East Oakland, California, which is doing a large business, and is represented as making money. Most of the raw material is brought from Texas. A little is grown in Merced county, where it does well. The cotton plant and Kern. It will do well here in Los Angeles.

HOLDERS of stock in Incorporations will be more careful of their statements when offering the same for sale, in view of the decision of Judge McFarland, of Sacramento. That court holds that to make a false representation to bring about a sale, is a crime.

Judge MAGUIRE's decision that every foreign Insurance Company must pay one per cent. tax of its gross income in premiums, into the treasury of every city where a paid fire department is maintained, is one of more than usual interest.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

Government Bonds and Railway Shares.

New York, December 21.—Government bonds dull and steady. The stock market offered some violent contrasts to-day, changing in an hour from extreme activity to a mid-season dullness, and from a decided weakness to great strength. The opening was again extremely weak, declines from last evening's figures ranging from one-eighth to one and a half percent. The transactions were very large, and a further decline was established in the early dealing, reaching being conspicuous with a drop of one and three-quarters per cent. The decline was checked in the first few minutes, however, and a strength as decided as the former weakness was soon displayed, material advances over opening figures being established. In the first hour there was a decided fall in the activity shown upon the culmination of first advances, and the market became positively dull in afternoon, prices remaining steady to firm in the meantime, but toward 2 p. m. the upward movement was again resumed accompanied by larger business, and the market finally closed around at about the best figures of the day. Everything on the active list showed material gains this evening while Tennessee rose down three per cent.
